STANDARD OIL BOWS TO COURT

"It can be now said that the Standard Oil Company will obey the decree of the court, and that all companies embraced in the court decree will carry on business in accordance with the mandate of the United States Supreme Court ordering the dissolution of the Standard Oil Company was pledged today by Mortimer F. Elliott, general solicitor of the company, to give out the following statement at his office:

"Having only before us the press reports of Chief Justice Waite's oral opinion and remarks of Justice Harlan, and not having yet seen the opinion of the court in full it is impossible to make any lengthy statement. The full opinion has to be read and studied by any associates and myself before it can be intelligently dealt with."

It was learned that the directors had been for several months planning a complete reorganization of the $500,000,000 corporation to satisfaction of an adverse decision from the Supreme Court. The directors will comply with the decision declaring it to be a combination in restraint of trade and a monopoly, ordering its dissolution probably within two

The directors of the company expect that under the reorganization plans as framed by the most expert attorneys in the country the business will go on as usual, although under conditions complying with the Supreme Court mandate.

The first step, and the most important, will be the introduction of a federal incorporation bill which the administration has and under consideration for months. The president believes that this can now be passed with the weight of the Supreme Court decision behind it, showing that the standard oil Company is guilty of violating the Sherman antitrust law. President Taft today called a meeting of his cabinet to discuss the decision. With the Standard Oil finding as a precedent, Mr. Taft intends to leave up the whole question of monopolistic business in the United States and its proper regulation.

The fact that eight of the nine justices were unanimous in upholding the decision

The father of the gigantic $500,000,000 trust, stands strongly in the belief that the ruling on the Tobacco Trust case, now before the court will follow the same general lines. This will be an additional lever for the government's use in the vast question which has been opened before it.

The tobacco trust decision is expected May 29. Not only must the case of the Standard be considered by the Pres-

Government's Great Victory.
 "Substantially every proposition contended for by the government in this case is affirmed by the supreme court," said Attorney General Wickersham today. "In the opinion in which the chief justice

THOMPSON'S SPA ENDORSES GAS COOKING

We reproduce here below a letter from the proprietor of the well known restaurant, Thompson's Spa. This restaurant is justly famed for the excellence of its cuisine and the celerity of its service.

We, therefore, take particular pride in the endorsement given of the use of gas for cooking.

Boston Consolidated Gas Company,
24 West Street,
Boston, Mass.

Gentlemen:-

At the request of your Mr. Joyce, I will state that for the past five years we have used gas for nearly all of our oven cooking, in fact, for nearly all of our cooking except that done in steam kettles.

We appreciate the convenience and cleanliness of the use of gas, and would not go back to coal again unless we were forced to do so.

Very truly yours,

Chas J. Eaton

It is a SIGNIFICANT FACT that this concern which has built up its reputation by supplying only the BEST COOKED FOOD "would not go back to COAL again unless it WERE FORCED TO."

THE DETERMINING FACTORS in the CHOICE of GAS as the fuel apply to the HOUSEHOLDER just as much as to the RESTAURANT and HOTEL owner—THE SAVING OF ROOM, THE INCREASE OF OUTPUT, THE CERTAINTY OF SPEEDY AND SATISFACTORY RESULTS, THE ABSOLUTE CLEANLINESS and the DELICIOUSLY COOKED FOOD produced.

This is only one of many letters of like import from similar installations—Why not ask for figures covering your own requirements? Advice and information gladly given.

We have a wide choice of cooking appliances, from the smaller cookers to the large hotel ranges, which we shall be pleased to show on application; or our representative will call if desired.

Do not forget the FREE OFFER FOR WATER HEATERS announced on May 11th. 5000 FEET OF GAS WITH EVERY WATER HEATER installed in accordance with the conditions announced. Communicate with us relative to these conditions.

A Revivified Democracy an Inspiring Spectacle

The Democratic party, as a nation-wide and militant organization, was born in Jackson's time. At Baltimore, on the 21st of May, 1832, it held the first national party convention ever assembled in the United States.

It is likely to be set down in the history books of the future that this ancient and venerable organization—many times beaten, but altogether indomitable—was born again and was ended with a new youth and vigor seventy-nine years later in the special session of the Sixty-second Congress.

For political organizations live and breathe by the power of great ideas. And the whole course of current events goes to show that the present majority party in the lower house of Congress has become again, as of old, the party of an expanding and progressive Americanism—a party that rises above sections and factions and responds to great popular demands.

The Republican Senate halts and staggers shamefully. But the Democratic House has already made a legislative record unparalleled within recent memory. It has been in session for fewer than thirty working days, yet it has delivered to the supply and pension bills an astonishing grant of reform bills—namely the Canadian Reciprocity bill, the Farm Loan bill, the resolution for the direct election of Senators and the Kicker Campaign Fund Publicity bill.

Not in sixty years has the Democratic party presented so united and conquering a front as it does today.

In three Congresses since 1870—to wit, from 1875 to 1881, from 1883 to 1889 and from 1891 to 1895—there was a Democratic majority in the House of Representatives. In four Congresses—from 1877 to 1883 and from 1883 to 1889—the Democrats controlled the Senate. In three Congresses—from 1877 to 1881 and from 1888 to 1895—the party controlled both houses, and in 1893-1895 the Presidency as well.

But whenever in sixty years the party has been on top temporarily the times were out of joint and the party was divided on one or more great issues. Hence, although the party was strong in opposition it became wild, confused or timid as soon as it had the power to act. It resented with vigor and credit the Republican abuses of the reconstruction era, but it was unable to gather its forces for any programme of progress and reform of its own.

The old days of division and impotence now seem to have passed like a dimpled dream. It is the Republican party which is now in confusion and disorder.

The homogeneity and executive efficiency which the dominant party in the present House of Representatives has shown is the most inspiring spectacle seen in many years in America. Its clearness and singleness of mind on the tariff question looks like a miracle of political regeneration. For that question hitherto has been the moving engine centre of all the confused currents and cross purposes of public betrayal and political chicanery.

Sweeping aside the narrow interests of traditional party politics, the Democrats of the House have loyally come to the rescue of a Republican President in the great national cause of Canadian reciprocity.

They have a right to remember that it was a Democratic administration that, in 1854, established the first reciprocity agreement with Canada—an agreement that was abrogated and abolished in 1857, under Republican rule.

In their large-mindedness the Democrats of the present House are not ashamed to remember also that reciprocity, as a political issue, was revived by James G. Blaine's Pan-American policy in 1889, and was afterward sealed by treaties of reciprocal exchange between this country and some of the American "Latin" States.

Neither are they reluctant to recall that reciprocity was almost the last word upon the dying lips of President McKinley. In this all-containing care of simple patriotism and public welfare the Democrats, who now lead the van of American progress, are content to be the heirs and executors of Blaine and McKinley, as well as of those ante-bellum Democrats who fought the first battles for the freedom of a continental commerce.

With such omens and earnestness of a supra-partisan public spirit on the part of the House Democrats in their dealings with the great question of the northern frontier, the country has good reason to expect that they will meet with equal magnanimity the still greater issue that thrusts its interrogation at us from across the Rio Grande.

All soundness of wisdom and political probity, every impulse of an expanding and indomitable democracy, must be invoked for the establishment in Mexico of the conditions of liberty and law.

The part that the United States is to take in this work of emancipation and peace waits upon the leaders of the lower house in the Sixty-second Congress.

It Is Right That the State Should Help "Tech."

The Massachusetts Institute of Technology is asking Massachusetts to help her to become established in her new home by appropriating for her use one hundred thousand dollars a year for a period of ten years.

The Legislature has wisely granted the Institute's request. There are few institutions in which Massachusetts may feel so much pride, and which reflect so much honor on the name of our State as the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

She was founded by our great war governor, Andrew, and in half a century she has become the leading vocational school in the world. No other school has received such praise by the educators and statesmen abroad.

In the world struggle for business and in that greater struggle for efficiency which gives society the highest return upon its labor and upon the natural resources consumed, the value of highly trained experts is more and more recognized. Germany's wonderful modern industrial progress has its foundation in an early recognition of this fact and in the careful training of her young men.

The type of education required at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology lies at the bottom of modern industry. The institute has now eight hundred and fifty Massachusetts boys sitting to become both experts in some important department of modern industry and educated men.

To train these young men it costs one hundred and twenty thousand dollars a year more than they pay the institute for their education. This must be made up by private endowments or by the State.

The school is so young and yet has grown so fast that most of her sons have graduated within the last decade and have not had the time to acquire the great private fortunes from which private endowments must come.

No school is doing greater, if, indeed, any is doing so great a work in training our young men to utilize the forces of nature and her health for the highest benefit of society. It is a Massachusetts institution and it is worthy of its name. More than one-third the student body are the children of wage-earners who are being taught at least as cost. If she preceives this State aid, she will continue to grow and prosper. If she does not, it may halt her career and that would be a great pity.
